REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

For President

BENJAMIN HARRISON, OF INDIANA.

For Vice President

WHELAN REID,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

For Electors at Large:

THOMAS W. HYDE, of Bath.
WILLIAM M. KADE, of Cherryfield.
First District—E. H. GOODALL.
Second District—M. C. WOODWARD.
Third District—A. W. WELLES.
Fourth District—ROBERT C. FINNEY.

The Belfast Journal says: "The people of this county did not want the Australian system in the first place, and are disgusted with its workings as shown in the recent election. It has none of the virtues claimed for it, and many more faults than its opponents supposed. It is a fraud and a farce, and the law that saddled this thing upon the people should be promptly repealed, as we have no doubt it will be."

When somebody called John Sherman's attention to Mr. Cleveland's twistings and doublings over the Chicago tariff plank, the Senator remarked: "He did not dare to endorse it, for the Democracy is the only party since the formation of the Federal Government that has dared to claim a protective tariff unconstitutional, and it will wash it hadn't before election. Talk about 'ketter day Democracy' being the party of Jefferson and Jackson? Why, they wouldn't own it if they were alive to-day."

The Boston Herald declares that the Republicans must be hard pressed for political capital when they arraign Mr. Cleveland as untrustworthy on currency questions. For some years past the Herald has claimed the Providence Journal as one of the ablest papers in the country, but the Journal says that Cleveland "finds no difficulty in preserving a discreet silence about the foolish proposal to revive the old State bank currency," and in his reference to the silver question is not so "clear and definite as President Harrison." As the Journal has heretofore been a prominent supporter of Cleveland it appears that in its judgment he has forfeited the confidence of the people on the currency question now that he is engaged in a scramble for votes at whatever cost, even to the extent of taking his orders from Tammany.

It appears that Cleveland first manifested his hostility to the old veterans in an official character when he was Mayor of the city of Buffalo. At that time he vetoed an appropriation made by the City Council for the proper observance of Memorial Day. Afterwards when he was Governor of the State he vetoed a bill providing for an appropriation for a soldiers' monument. He alleged that it was in violation of the constitution, although a few months later he signed a bill in favor of a contractor for the amount of $10,000. A similar bill had been vetoed by Gov. Cornell on the ground that it was unconstitutional, but Cleveland only applied his constitutional rule to the veterans. The same hostile spirit was maintained during his Presidential administration. It is no wonder that they will not vote for such a man in the coming election.

A New York despatch says: The trouble at the Democratic headquarters is that the reports they receive indicate no progress whatever. In this State the sudden feeling of the Hill Democracy continues, and the contention between the anti-Tammany Democracy here and those who would suppress the organization is more bitter than it was at the beginning of the canvass. The reports from Connecticut are dismal, and as if to emphasize the sorry condition there, the Democracy is the strongest district in the State are now engaged in a cut-throat quarrel. The committee recognizes that New Jersey is more likely to give a Republican plurality this year than it has been since the party was organized. The reports from the South are particularly disheartening. Judge Grady, who has just returned from a trip to Virginia, where he spoke for Cleveland, as the actor attests lines that are distasteful to him with stimulated earnestness, says that while the Democracy there hope, they are in ghastly fear of the People's electors ticket be victorious, and similar reports are sent from Alabama. It seems also to be in the air that defeat is impending and that nothing but some almost miraculous deliverance can save the party from catastrophe. Little straws show this feeling. The betting man who may or may not be of authority are not wagering their money upon the Democracy except at long odds.

Official Returns of Governor's Vote.

He Meant It.

At the reunion of the Third Corps in full that they might reach the thousands who were absent.

Your touching allusion to the domestic affliction of our country, the President of the United States, was characteristic of the affection you have ever manifested for those who served in the Union Army; while your appeal to your audience to judge between the man who risked his life for the Union and has ever since composed the honest cause of the soldier, and the one who did neither one nor the other, met with a response which clearly indicated how the veterans of the Union Army, irrespective of political bias, feel upon this subject.

As the commander of a brigade of six Pennsylvania regiments in your corps I thank you for this manly and fearless expression of your views, and I beg of you to put them in such form that they may reach every man and the sons of every man who has a loyal record to defend against the abuse and disparagement of those who constituted the enemy in the rear while we were at the front.

Very truly and sincerely yours,
CHARLES H. T. COLLIER.

SATURDAY MORNING, 25 FIFTH AVENUE.

Dear General:

The Washington Star and the New York Press had sketchy brief reports of our reunion, but the arrangements made by the improvised committee were so bad so far as the press is concerned, that no full reports were made, and I don't believe any stenographer was present to take notes. The chairman called to see me and expressed regret for all omissions and shortcomings. He said he hoped to find that one of the reporters present had taken down my remarks, and if so, would send draft for revision.

Ever so many thanks for your kind estimate of what I said. The men heard it and I meant it, and let us be content.

Yours truly,
D. E. SICKLES.
